

Dark Light in transit theory 4-23-2016

Light appears to be misunderstood if observation holds true.

Vortex Particle theory is a new way of thinking of Light and the basis for Dark particles in space and the light in transit theory.

First lets simply consider the nature of light as a Process...

Where does the light that we see come from? It comes from stars which are also our Sun right? If that is true it must leave the star and pass thru space to get where it hits matter and then it Becomes "Light" as we know it. So is space empty?...is there no energy no matter in the "vacuum of space"? Not at all quite obviously. Space is packed full of "Dark" light on its way to "Becoming Light Light" when it interacts with matter and smashes into an electron "Cloud"..which emits another electron of lesser energy and a small amount is absorbed if white or light color and more electrons absorbed if dark. This we can see and feel the heat, it is obvious.

What is a "Dark Particle"? .....I have a very simple argument. Space is not an empty Dark vacuum. Space is completely filled with LIGHT that is dark while in transit. Dark energy and dark matter is "potential" light until it hits matter and becomes visible as light due to the RE-RADIATION. This is obvious as space stations re-radiate solar particles and become visible. The re-radiated glow is BOTH energy and matter which came from a luminary (star) and flows like rain drops of electrons from a hose of Trillion headed sprinkler. All that electron rain is dark until it hits things that have an "electron Cloud" which requires a nucleus.

What is Vortex Theory and how does it solve the wave particle duality problem?.....It states that Electrons are moving thru space at a uniform forward speed. We call it the speed of light but it is actually "Electron transit speed" and the electrons are spinning at variable frequencies creates a particle that reacts as a wave and experiments have shown this to be the case and it is reproducible. (media affects light speeds). Light is always demonstrated as a liquid and it appears to act as a liquid in venturi light experiments photographed by Rodney Warren in Australia in 2015 and continuing. Venturi Affects acts like this..The Electrons flow quietly thru the NON NUCLEAR matter of space until forced thru a rounded slit (venturi) and then Chaos and then they reform to spinning vortex particles. https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=CRsmfG\_gKDU . Light was accelerated thru a venturi slit and observed to crash into chaos on exiting. The exact behavior expected was observed... <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=DPzDRWNb6fA>

...Space is obviously Bustling with electrons from all angles but few Only nuclear matter has Electrons surrounding nuclei in a cloud. The cloud it appears is the spring board for light re-radiation. https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=CRsmfG\_gKDU

Another fairly simple conclusion can be drawn about lights mass and energy.....The Sun (and stars etc) emit radiation that is our light. It hits solar panels and creates "Electron-icity" which requires energy. What about mass? Light also spins a Crookes radiometer so it has mass. The Sun sends electron rain as spinning particles but NO NUCLEAR BITS normally (but nuclear particles do likely leave the Sun to some degree..not a point here).

So what does an Electron weigh? Not very much compared to Protons and neutrons. Takes 1800 or so electrons to = a nuclear particle. How many hit each sq inch each second...Nobody has a clue but lets just say billions/sec/sqinch.

Where do these electrons...these bits of matter go? The Earth is covered with Electron Light ABSORBERS...which are the plants and animals on land and sea. The land and rocks and dirt also absorb this light and we can feel the heat RE-RADIATED. Some light is re radiated all the way back to space but very little in comparison to what is seen and felt to be absorbed ..it seems obvious. The Plants literally eat the electrons as food which is supplemented by small amounts of minerals in the soils. A very simple exercise can show this process and result.(tests are designed but need to done.) These tests are VERY simple and can completely verify or debunk this Earth Expansion Theory.

What does the electron ultimately end up doing and does it affect Earth? If what appears to the eye is true...It will grow the Earth and this can be demonstrated easily. Bio-mass in a closed system. The Electron absorption will increase the weight of the overall system. Example. 5Lbs of dirt 1 gallon of water 1 seed and sunlight. 4 months later 8lbs total in the system which =3lbs of harvest and therefore an increase to the EARTH of 3 lbs. Can that be...3 lbs of plant harvest plus original pot of 5 lbs. Lets see....some will still be dirt and some roots now but no weight difference and water recycles so conclusions is....the sunlight added 3 lbs to the weight of the system and was from outside this planet. In the early days of Earth the creatures and fauna were enormous so growth of the Planet would also.

Conclusions.....

Current light "Wave/particle" theory needs to be examined again. "Vortex Particle Theory" appears to fulfill requirements quite well. Light in transit must exist and is likely dark energy and dark matter.

Light has no nuclear particles and is the purest and likely smallest atomic particle.

Light appears to act like a fluid in all slit experiments including revolutionary "venturi"slit experiments.

The Vacuum of space is filled with dark particles destined to become light on electron Cloud contact.

The Earth is adding bio-mass rapidly as the Earth and the surface life absorb electrons in Vortex Particle form.

Research and Theory by Roger Spurr and Experiments and photos by Rodney Warren.

Roger@mudfossils.com