

“Sakalin Island Russia Kola Superdeep Borehole changes geology”

Recent findings seem to indicate the Earth may actually be a living Organism. Deep Earth has been misunderstood. Videos discussing this are on mudfossils.com

The very DEEP earth was considered void of ORGANICS because the “Earth is just a rock from space with bits of life scurrying and growing magically on the surface”. Thoughts outside that accepted belief are not well received. But again humor me, I think I have a case.

“CYCLE OF LIFE if Earth was a living organism”

“All organic life is food for Earth. Hydrogen is the product of the organic double cell layer membranes (sphere of carbon, layer of water, another sphere of carbon), contents of the cell resides inside this DCL.....did you notice...100% HYDRO CARBON. Carbon binds to and transports hydrogen as (H<sub>2</sub>O) in these DCLs. The H<sub>2</sub>O bonds are broken easily at these great temp and pressure, Van Der Waals forces, Pauli Principle and other extreme condition forces need consideration. Carbon itself may be consumed for food as well. These are the molecules...of life, Moms diet.

As Mom starts to digest, she sublimates the VOC molecules near the surface. Other elements go deeper, hotter, more pressure, transitioning to metals and finally the left overs are carbon and inorganics. (Carbon Has highest sublimation point (around 7000f) of any element so it remains). This is Moms lunch.

This is about the DEEPEST hole in the Earth about 8 miles deep in Russia. (wiki) Boiling Hydrogen found:

Scientists found one of the more fascinating findings to emerge from this well is that no transition from granite to basalt was found at the depth of about 7 km where the velocity of seismic waves has a discontinuity. Instead the change in the seismic wave velocity is caused by a metamorphic transition in the granite rock. In addition, the rock at that depth had been thoroughly fractured and was saturated with water, which was surprising. This water, unlike surface water, must ( always a must ) have come from deep-crust minerals and had been unable to reach the surface because of a layer of impermeable rock. ( MUST BE ) [8]

Another unexpected discovery was a large quantity of hydrogen gas; the mud that flowed out of the hole was described as "boiling" with hydrogen. Wicki [9] (“MUST” be a mistake somewhere ). What if the Earth was alive....crazy but we are ALL scientist and consider facts. Intellectual “unshakable” opinion is based on 100% theory and that theory is based on unobservable events and their observable result. Findings: Science was wrong about their guesses related to Geology. Their conclusions were understandable but based on a flawed premise. The Earth is clearly living but sick.

The overburden, structural scaffolding of life, kerogens and inorganic mineral rock and all other metals is recycled. It is conveyed to the Volcanoes and reprocessed into raw homogenous minerals to feed the surface. We all know the process...Erosion then plants eat, we eat plants and animals and all die....

Consider this carefully. Life is the concentrator of elements, not recrystallization by “floculation”.

We take in a bucket full of stuff...our body divides it up and sends calcium to bones, iron to blood, metals to connective tissues and MUCH more separation and CONCENTRATION. . We are literally chemical processing plants.

Unfortunately, Careers are destroyed unless researched as a “SILLY” hobby. If taken seriously you will notice others eyes become detached, your email will stop working, next the phone stops, you notice childlike giggle sounds and seems someone usually is pointing at you, whispering in other ears is a common additional observation.
